

For the past 25 years, Craig Carr has been a church pastor, conference ministerial director and vice president, and currently serves as ministerial director for the Mid-America Union.

Craig as pastor and his wife Carisa as an elementary school teacher, have been blessed to serve in three different Union territories. Life and ministry have taken them on ministry adventures from Idaho to Tennessee to Michigan to Georgia to Colorado and Washington state. They met at Union College, and were married at the College View church, and since 2022, they have returned to the heartland and life in Lincoln, Nebraska. They have two adult children: their daughter Cassie, who is married to Blake and live in Loma Linda, California, and their son Christian, who is stationed at Dover Air Force Base, in Delaware.

A graduate of Union College, Craig holds a bachelor's in business administration and human resource management, a Master of Divinity from Andrews University and a Doctor of Ministry degree from Denver Seminary. Craig spent the first part of his professional career in health care administration before becoming a pastor.

Craig enjoys traveling, hiking, and photography and can be found on Instagram @hikeswithcamera. As a part of his daily devotions, Craig also goes for an outdoor run every day and has been running every day for almost five years. He's completed 11 marathons and considers every day he gets to run a great day!

As Baptism Coordinator, Craig is dedicated to serving at Camporee in such a way that allows for every Pathfinder who desires to be baptized is able to and experiences a life-changing event with Jesus as their Savior.
