

Victor Brown spent nearly his entire career serving in various roles in Seventh-day Adventist education. He started at Mile Academy as a Bible and History teacher. Next, he went to Shenandoah Valley Academy as the Chaplain, Bible teacher and Director of Recruitment. In 1985 he moved to Southwestern Adventist University as the Enrollment Vice President and Chaplain. In 1998 he moved to Walla Walla University as the Enrollment Vice President. Victor moved to Kettering College and Kettering Health in 2007.

Victor is married to Laurie Jarnes Brown, and they have two adult children, Jeremy and Eric. Victor and Laurie live in Dayton, Ohio